Managing the complications of bariatric surgery for the general surgeon

Friday 12 June 2015

Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow
232 - 242 St Vincent Street, Glasgow, G2 5RJ
Led by a faculty of experienced bariatric surgeons, this symposium will focus on the recognition and management of common complications of bariatric procedures for the general surgeon.

As bariatric surgical procedures become more common, general surgeons not necessarily trained in bariatric surgery will often be the first port-of-call for the assessment and immediate management of bariatric patients presenting with complications specific to these procedures.

There is often considerable anxiety amongst general, non-bariatric surgeons regarding the management of these patients.

Why attend?
Topics covered include:
• Optimal use of imaging
• Early and late complications of gastric bands and early
• Late complications of gastric bypass procedures

Who should attend?
• Consultant General Surgeons
• Surgical trainees of all grades involved in the assessment and management of bariatric surgical emergencies
• Physicians and GPs involved in referring patients for bariatric surgery
